

Herbst Theatre

VETERANS BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO, CA

Originally called the Veterans Auditorium, this historic 890-seat theatre opened in 1915 and is considered historically significant as the birthplace of the United Nations.

EverGreene conservators provided protection and monitoring services during construction associated with a major renovation, systems overhaul and seismic intervention. The 100-year-old murals were protected from impact and dust while allowing for airflow. Once construction was completed, EverGreene conserved and restored the eight Frank Brangwyn-designed murals, each measuring 11' x 24', that had originally been created for the Panama-Pacific Exposition of 1915. The murals were removed after the exposition closed in 1916 and reinstalled into the Herbst Theatre in 1934.

MORE INFORMATION:

<https://evergreene.com/projects/herbst-theatre/>

SERVICES PERFORMED

Conservation Treatments
Investigation, Testing & Analysis
Mortar Analysis & Petrography
Murals

PROJECT DETAILS

Restoration/Renovation Architect
Carey & Co.

General Contractor
Charles Pankow Builders

Original Architect
Arthur Brown, Jr.

Muralist
Frank Brangwyn

Client
San Francisco Department of Public Works

